Doing more with less is a cliché, but it's a very compelling one. As I get older and able to buy more things, I find myself wanting to pare down to the essentials. I love having things that serve more than one purpose, and having clothes I can dress up or down. I love the idea of being able to see through the clutter in my life to a place that's clearer and more productive—more me. Calvin and Edison help me simplify.

IZZY

Calvin Rolltop: Custom Copper finish, V02 Walnut veneer front, pull-out breadboard (recommended for standing-height work, not sandwich making); Calvin Lunchbox: Custom Copper finish; Edison post and beam: Charcoal with slat walls and transaction counters; Edison privacy: Custom Shoji Screen in Terra Cotta; Clara tables; Paige task and Cattie side seating

Straight-forward and full of surprises. Edison and Calvin are both.

Get out of your chair, let in the light, do a lot with less space. Edison's architectural post and beam collection, here with seated-height privacy, defines a space without denying natural light. Various standing-height worksurfaces encourage you to work in new ways. Slat walls add texture and plenty of room for attaching accessories (or not). And down the road, as new technologies and materials emerge, the options with Edison just continue to grow.

Stake your space.

By nature, people are pretty darn adaptable. So is Edison. The basic post and beam collection works wonders as a traditional wrapped workstation in a common footprint. But it also easily transforms a wide-open space into a creativity-centered playground, complete with a flat-screen monitor and furniture on wheels. Either extreme demonstrates what Edison's about: flexible space definition and the easy transfer of power and communication.

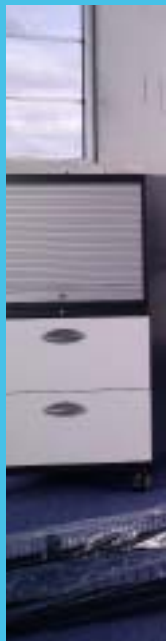

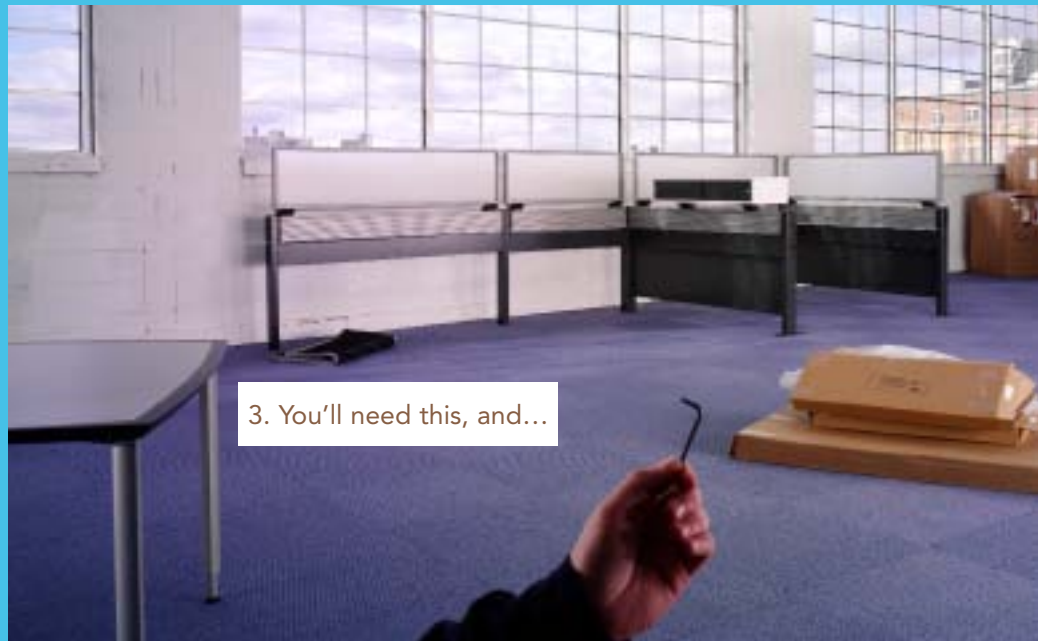

Calvin Lunchboxes: Yellow, Izzy/Silver; Edison post and beam: Charcoal, slat walls, transaction counter; Edison privacy: Glass core, Charcoal frame; Jack tables; Hannah seating; Rollerskates: BYO if you want to keep pace with your furniture

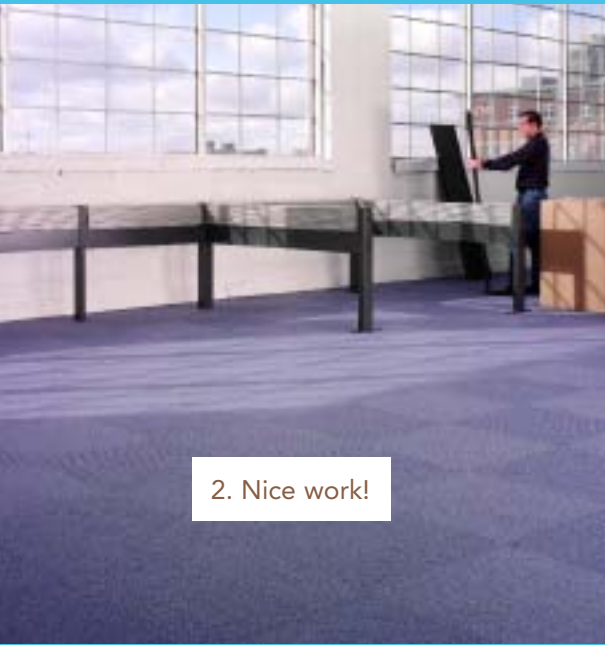

Calvin Lunchbox: Yellow; Calvin Locker: Charcoal case, Snow White doors, left facing; Calvin Garage: Charcoal, Edison post and beam; Charcoal with two-way closed collaboration box; Edison modesty; Edison privacy: Frosted Acrylic core; Clara tables; HAG seating; Wolf in sheep's clothing; good for business

Grab your intuition and two simple tools, and you're ready to install everything that makes up the Edison collection, from the freestanding post and beam pieces to the accessories, privacy and storage. Here you can see Edison unassembled; assembled in its most basic form; with the addition of privacy and accessories; and finally complete with worksurfaces and Calvin storage.

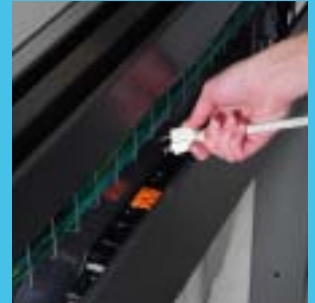

2. Nice work!

4. ...voila!

Edison post and beam and modesty: Charcoal; Edison privacy: Frosted Acrylic core, izzySilver frame; Edison two-way collaboration box: Clara tables; Calvin Tower and left-facing Locker: Charcoal case, Snow White doors; Calvin Lunchbox: Yellow; Tim: nice flair with that allen wrench

Edison post and beam: easy access to manage cable, power and communication (something that's usually out of sight and mind with Edison)

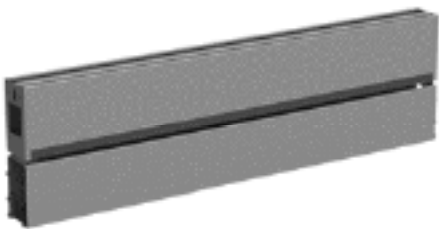

Post

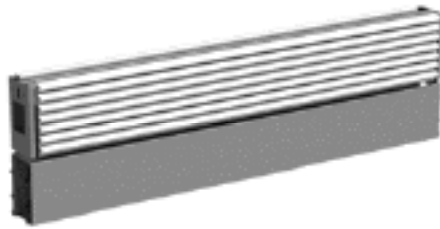

Easier done than said.

It's one of those rare and wonderfully simple things. With just a few basic essentials, Edison lets you carve out a space of your own. It's a collection that cooperates, not overwhelms. The beams of your choice—flat, or one of the styles that accommodate accessories, slat or mix—are anchored by posts, then completed, if you wish, with privacy and modesty.

Super neat-o.

Feel free to get ultra efficient by going crazy with Edison's handy accessories. Whichever ones you choose, you'll find your workspace expanding. Keep paper, binders, CDs and other clutter off your workspace but still in reach. Or actually expand your workspace options by adding a transaction top or collaboration box. Both options give you a standing-height surface to get you out of your seat for a change.

Hide and seek.

What could be cooler in your workspace than a tambour door that rolls away for complete access to hidden worksurfaces and all your stuff, and then pulls back down for the neatest of all possible worlds? Nothing, in our opinion. Designed in a handful of great configurations to meet whatever need you have, Calvin can even be set up for sharing and used for extra space delineation.
